

Dear student

As a youngster living in the technological era of 21st century, you are well familiar with digital banking facilities. Although very safe, but still there is an element of risk associated with online transactions. Also you might have received some calls/messages from cyber fraudsters luring you to seemingly attractive deals. But once you obey there instructions, you are bound to lose your money and your confidential information will be passed to these fraudsters. Then the question is: What can be done to avoid banking frauds? And, what should be done if you have fallen to the tricks of the fraudsters?

The IQAC, Ramjas College, in collaboration with the Ombudsman office, Reserve Bank of India is holding a seminar on “Public Awareness Programme on Cyber Financial Frauds/Digital Banking” to address these issues. The information about the seminar is there in the attached poster. The IQAC, Ramjas College expects you to attend the seminar and motivate your friends to attend the same.

Regards

Prof. Hemant Kumar Razor

Vice Principal and Co-coordinator IQAC, Ramjas College

Prof. Babita Goyal

Coordinator of the seminar